Explore our Wise Stories from General Practice...

Throughout the country, multidisciplinary teams have been innovative in developing and improving services, to the benefit of their patients, teams and communities. These innovations all require clinicians and wider general practice team members to use their knowledge work skills.

Have you explored our stories from WiseGeneralPractice teams and beyond?
See if any interest you below- they could provide some inspiration for how your team could work together to further improve services, for the benefit of both staff and patients.

Menopause care journey

GPs participating in CATALYST, a career development programme for new to practice GPs, worked in teams on quality improvement activities. They decided to implement a simple change to the menopause care journey for patients at their practice. On review, their straightforward intervention improved care and reduced appointment usage- read more on WiseGeneralPractice stories!

Homeless Health Service

Homeless individuals often experience poor health, though can struggle to access primary healthcare services. In recognition of local need, a GP Federation in the North of England established a homeless health service in partnership with their local council and the charity, Brighter Futures. Find out what they did in our WiseStories!
